

Jason & Faith

Dear Birth mother,

We thank you for taking a look into our world and considering us to raise your child. Our family is full of love and strength, and we are eager to share our home and grow our family by embracing your child. As you continue this journey, we wish you all the love and support you need.

By selecting us to adopt your child, you can be secure with the knowledge that our family will provide the love, stability, and opportunities that children need to grow up strong, confident and happy

In 2013, we met after we had each traveled the world, were in our thirties and ready to date more seriously. Rooted in honesty and trust, our relationship has always been strong. Our beliefs are much the same on the big issues, but our interests differ enough to allow us to have our own space when we need it.

Jason proposed to Faith at his family's cabin in upstate New York in July 2016 and had a lunch wedding on the Chesapeake Bay with Jason's Uncle Quentin officiating the ceremony.

MEET JASON

I am a dedicated family man, and he strive to live up to the example given to me by my father. I make the effort every day to be the best partner and father I can. I have been described as a steady source of patience and support, and my cautious nature helps keep our family grounded. As a loving, attentive father who is mindful of our family's needs, I am always perceptive and patient and work hard to ensure our family is protected and cared for.

MEET FAITH

“Faith has many great qualities. She is intelligent, thoughtful and friendly, just to name a few. The best of her many qualities is her ability to be compassionate. Faith is always thinking about ways that she can help others. She is my best friend and a patient, loving mother to Isabel. She loves children and has a great capacity to love. Faith is someone that I know will always be there for me and our family, no matter what. She has been there through the best and worst times and is a devoted mother”.

Isabel

Our village is spread out up and down the east coast between New York state, Delaware, North and South Carolina and some in California as well. Having our friends and family involved in our lives is essential to helping us raise a healthy and happy family, which teaches children to develop happy and healthy relationships as they grow.

In 2018, we made the decision to raise our family in the home Jason grew up in. We live in the epitome of suburbia: we have several miles of maintained trails, lakes and ponds, community pools, gyms, grocery stores, restaurants, and all the amenities we could ask for.

Our schools and libraries consistently rate among the top in the country and we were recently deemed the Safest City in America for the fourth consecutive year.

With your trust in us to care and love your child, our promise to you is that we will teach your child to be a strong and independent, free-thinking and kind person that considers how actions impact others. We will love your child unconditionally and are able to provide whatever support is needed to be able to grow in a positive, loving environment. It is our sincerest wish to be supportive to you, too, and promise to be respectful and considerate of your feelings and wishes as you plan for adoption. We hope you choose to entrust us with the care and love your child deserves.
